

Literature Searches

The Richard M. Johnston Health Sciences Library
at the Western Pennsylvania Hospital

Assistance searching the medical literature is available. The Librarian can help you search the following databases and electronic resources:

- Ovid MEDLINE
- PubMed MEDLINE
- Ovid CINAHL (Cumulative Index of Nursing and Allied Health Literature)
- OVID Cochrane Databases
- Harrison's Online
- STAT!Ref
- UpToDate
- Micromedex

If you have a project due date, please notify the Librarian at least two weeks in advance in order to plan a search strategy and to allow time for articles to arrive through interlibrary loan service, should the library not hold what you need.

Submit your request electronically

If you know the keywords, or general idea of the topic you are researching, you may submit a request for a literature search from the electronic form located on the Library home page.

Go to <http://home.wpahs.org/wph/library> and click on "Search Services." Type your request in the box located at the bottom of the form and click on Submit. The Librarian will search the medical literature and provide you with a bibliography from which you may select relevant articles.

You may also send an email to the Librarian at mjdorsey@wpahs.org or call (412) 578-4708.
